

MANAGING THE REFUGEE CRISIS

THE FACILITY FOR REFUGEES IN TURKEY

Turkey's geographical position makes it a first reception and transit country for many refugees and migrants. As the result of an unprecedented influx of people seeking refuge, the country currently hosts more than 2.7 million registered Syrian refugees and is making commendable efforts to provide them with humanitarian aid and support. The EU is committed to assist Turkey in dealing with this challenge. The European Commission is providing humanitarian assistance to support vulnerable refugees who have fled violence in their country, in particular those living outside of camps and in need of immediate aid, and those requiring health assistance and access to education.

THE FACILITY

The Facility for Refugees in Turkey is the answer to the EU Member States' call for significant additional funding to support refugees in the country. The Facility is designed to ensure that the needs of refugees and host communities are addressed in a comprehensive and coordinated manner. The Facility for Refugees in Turkey focuses on humanitarian assistance, education, migration management, health, municipal infrastructure, and socio-economic support.

The Facility has a budget of €3 billion for 2016-2017. This is made up of €1 billion from the EU budget, and €2 billion from the EU Member States.

HOW DOES THE FACILITY FUNCTION?

To ensure the coordination, complementarity and efficiency of the assistance, the Facility Steering Committee provides strategic guidance on the type of actions to be financed, with what amount, and through which financing instruments. The Steering Committee is chaired by the European Commission and composed of EU Member State representatives, with Turkey sitting in an advisory capacity. Projects are selected according to a needs assessment, and following the procedure of the financing instruments mobilised.

TOTAL SUPPORT THROUGH THE FACILITY TO DATE

Of the overall €3 billion, €2.239 billion have so far been allocated, for both humanitarian and non-humanitarian assistance. Of the €2.239 billion allocated, €1.252 billion have been contracted. Of these €1.252 billion contracted, €467 million have been disbursed to date.

HUMANITARIAN SUPPORT UNDER THE FACILITY

Since the beginning of the Syria crisis, the European Commission has contributed more than €583 million, providing services such as health, food and basic needs assistance, winterization, shelter, education, water and sanitation, psychological support and protections programmes to refugees in camps and urban settings.

In June 2016, the Commission published the Humanitarian Implementation Plan for Turkey (HIP), for a total amount of € 505,65 million, making it the largest HIP ever published. In early September a further €348 million has been contracted through the largest ever humanitarian programme using direct cash transfers to cover the everyday needs of the most vulnerable refugee families in Turkey: the Emergency Social Safety Net (ESSN). Financed with by the EU and its Member States under the 'Facility for Refugees in Turkey', is the first social assistance scheme of its kind, marrying international humanitarian know-how and government services to reach out to one million refugees across Turkey.

In the second half of 2016, beside the ESSN cash-transfer system, health interventions that fall outside the minimum health package, in complementarity with medium- to long-term assistance will remain in focus to provide specific services, especially physical rehabilitation/post-operative care for war wounded, assistance to people living with disabilities, mental health services, reproductive health, etc. Comprehensive Protection activities will as well remain in the centre of the strategy in order to provide for the most vulnerable groups who may fall through the cracks of the assistance system and who are in need of legal assistance, child protection services or other specialised protection support. Education in Emergencies has also been identified as one of the priority areas for humanitarian interventions, through support to non-formal education and enabling education schemes, aimed to increase enrolment and improve attendance and in close collaboration with long-term instruments focusing on access to formal education.

NON-HUMANITARIAN SUPPORT UNDER THE FACILITY

In July 2016, the Commission adopted a Special Measure worth €1.415 billion which provides three strands of funding to address urgent needs of refugees and host communities in Turkey in the priority areas of education, health, municipal infrastructure and socio-economic support in the ten most affected provinces.

The first strand provides two direct grants worth € 600 million with the Turkish ministries for education and health, signed at the end of September, 2016. These grants will cover operational costs of and access to education and healthcare services for Syrian refugees and their children.

The second strand provides EU financial support for education and health-related infrastructure. It also provides for funding for municipal infrastructure in host communities and socio-economic support for Syrian refugees in Turkey, and will be implemented through delegation agreements with International Financial Institutions.

The third strand of the Measure includes an allocation to top-up the EU Regional Trust Fund in response to the Syrian crisis, allowing it to continue funding bottom-up assistance to refugees and host communities.

In August 2016, the Commission signed a €60 million agreement with the Turkish Directorate General for Migration Management (DGMM), to ensure that the transportation, reception and hosting of migrants returned from Greece to Turkey is carried out in a secure way in dignified conditions.
