Name of the practice Please note that by practice we mean an activity/method/tool that has been used or is in use by professionals and/or community members.	Family Counselling Centre
Description (max. 300 words) Short description of the aim and working method of the practice. Please note that in this description, it must be clear that there is an explicit connection to preventing and/or countering radicalisation and/or violent extremism. This means that in the aims and/or the activities/methods/tools of the practice, there is a link to preventing and countering radicalisation and/or violent extremism. Practices without this link cannot be included in the RAN Collection.	The Family Counselling Centre is a low-threshold service offering help to all families in crisis, as well as families with a multi-problematic background. The centre also plays an additional role, cooperating with municipalities to help families who find that one or more member is at risk of becoming radicalised, or that have children who have travelled to a conflict zone. The centre offers support, intervention, family therapy, and follow-up for the parents and siblings of the person of concern.

Geographical scope Please indicate where the practice has been/is implemented (countries, regions, cities).	The practice was launched by Enerhaugen Family Counselling Centre in Oslo and the Norwegian Police Security Service, PST, in 2015. So far, PST has selected the families of concern. At present, however, any public and private practitioner, as well as families, can contact the Family Counselling Centres to get support. In 2017, the service became a national measure and all the Family Counselling Centres in Norway were invited to training. Instructors from the RAN network were invited to provide this training.
Start of the practice Please indicate when (year) the practice was developed and implemented to indicate the maturity of the practice. Deliverables Please indicate if the practice has led to concrete deliverables, such as (links to) handbooks, training modules, videos.	PST and Enerhaugen Family Counselling Centre started cooperating in 2015. This cooperation became a national measure in 2017. All the Family Counselling Centres in Norway can support parents and relatives who are concerned about their children or relatives who have left for Syria.
Evidence and evaluation Short description on performance measures of the practice, including	The measure has not been formally evaluated, but the practice has received good feedback from the families. We are concerned about getting feedback about the process and how our clients experience their relationship with us as therapists along the way, following a client-oriented approach. The Family Counselling Centre does not usually make any formal evaluation. The feedback has thus been given verbally after individual sessions, when we ask our clients how they experienced the sessions and whether our talk and focus was relevant, or if there are topics they would like us to address in more detail. In addition, we receive verbal feedback after we end the contact, which has been positive. The clients have appreciated our care and found the opportunity to talk freely about their life and concerns in a therapeutic setting to be

We call him every two months to follow up. The father appreciates this contact.
Sustainability and transferability (maximum of 200 words) Short description on the sustainability and transferability of the practice, including e.g. information on the costs of the practice. Please elaborate on which elements are transferrable and how.	The practice is financed by the Public Sector and is therefore free of charge. It is transferable to states that have public family counselling centres or to states that finance private counselling. What makes this measure sustainable in Norway is possibly the fact that it has become a national measure in the Government's Action Plan against radicalisation and violent extremism. The fact that counselling is universal is also important.
